PREPARE FOR EMERGENCIES

When things are going along smoothly from day to day we naturally get careless and settle down to a matter-of-fact way, evidently thinking that because everything is going along smoothly today it will continue to do so indefinitely. Occasionally, however, little incidents creep in as if just to remind us that "it is the bright day that brings forth the adder, and craves war's walk."

This fact was clearly demonstrated last Sunday when for a short time there was "water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink."

Fortunately the situation was never serious but it surely would have been had it not been for the emergency engine down at the pumping plant.

There have been some who, when weather conditions were normal, thought an emergency engine was not necessary but after the experience of last Sunday they will surely change their minds in this regard.

Preparedness for any emergency is a lesson which is being severely taught at the present time.

OUR PRESENT WANT

C. S. Pindle, M. P. P. for Redcliff constituency, who has been at the front with the 3rd C. M. R., is now on his way home. We trust our representative will arrive in time to attend the present session of the legislature so that he may be able to bring some matters concerning this corner of his constituency to the attention of Premier Sifton and his government.

One of the most important matters which he might bring up is that of trying to secure a bridge or some kind of a ferry across the river here so as to enable the farmers on the other side to set into town to do their shopping and other business.

This is a matter the Review has advocated for years and will continue to advocate till we get some satisfaction, as we believe there is nothing the town needs more at the present time.

WE SHOULD WORRY?

Visitors to our town during the last week have been greatly surprised to see the fine, clear, sparkling water we have here while all other places contiguous to the rivers are getting soup out of their water pipes. Naturally they want to know the secret and when told it is our filtration system they expect to hear we have a million dollar plant. They are quite surprised to learn that it didn't cost us anything but that nature does the whole thing for us and she hasn't yet put in her bill.

Probably there are some of our own people who do not know that the water we use runs for two miles through sand and gravel in a natural underground channel before it is pumped up for our use. This is why it is always so clear, pure and cold. Nothing finer in the world. Why should we worry about next July.

"You never miss the lager till the keg runs dry" is an old saying, but that there is more truth than poetry in it was clearly demonstrated last Sunday when the water was turned off. We never realize just how good old aqua puri tastes until we have to do without it for a spell.

ALIEN MENACE IN CANADA

The feeling that we have not been strict enough in our treatment of enemy aliens is growing rapidly in Canada, and the mysterious fires amongst munition and other factories engaged in the manufacture of war materials, furnish ample grounds for this feeling.

Hundred of Germans are still holding important positions with Canadian firms, and, we are told, in the government service men of German extraction, perhaps of German sympathies, are found occupying responsible positions.

The old country has awakened much earlier to the peril of the alien enemy at large than have the people of Canada. Much stringent measures have been taken there to watch and control these people than have been applied here. The fact that aliens report once a week to the police, in no way prevents them from plotting and conspiring together to do as much harm in Canada as possible, and to partially nullify the effort we are making in the war.

Popular feeling is crystallizing into a mandate to the government that all Germans must be dismissed from positions of trust, and many people go so far as to say that every German now in Canada should be interned in prison camps or placed under stricter surveillance than at present.

A CUNNING MOVE

The Teuton proclamation that their submarines will exercise a right to sink on sight all enemy merchant vessels which may be armed, is quite a cunning move. Then, if merchant vessels leave all defence suns at home, the Teuton submarines will get the chance to sink them anyway, though perhaps giving those on board a chance to escape with their lives. They claim this right anyway. The new proclamation simply aims to make all merchantmen go unarmed so as to be perfectly safe prey. The best answer to it would be to arm all merchant vessels. A single gun would do. No German warships infest the ocean now except submarines and these are such fragile shells that they can't risk anything of an above-board fight.

Germany is talking of starting something in naval circles. As her navy has been bottled up for some time now she had better wait till after July 1st before she starts anything. There will be a big demand for bottled stuff in Alberta about that time.

A British Columbia correspondent tells us that year in the fruit districts of that province most of the work in the orchards will have to be done by the wives and daughters of the fruit-growers who have in large numbers answered the call and are now either fighting or preparing to fight the Huns. If the finance minister's decision to raise the duty on fruits will help to these women to make a good living there should be no opposition to it.

The Dominion commission on the high cost of living has published a report in which it says that two causes of the high cost of living in Canada is that it's people feel that they have a right to live a little better than their parents did, and that there is a great household waste. Regarding the first reason we cannot see that it took a commission to find this out. Every succeeding generation since the time of Adam has felt the same way. Otherwise, the growing of off-ices would still be the chief industry.

A large Russian aeroplane, carrying four aviators, dropped 30 bombs on American staff headquarters.

DANGERS MAY LURK IN ICE-BOX CORNERS

Three things must be found in a perfect refrigeration plant, and these must reach farther than the ice chest: the plant must be sanitary—efficient and economical.

First, one must see that the box is properly placed, preferably in a light, dry place, and that the drain pipe is properly connected. Many builders do not give this any consideration, and many housewives do not seem to care where the pipe leads or into what it drains: only that it "goes" somewhere and thus does away with the "pan under the ice box." Far better a pan that runs over periodically than a drip pipe connected with foul drain or sewer that will flood the box with sewer gas and poison its contents.

If the box is wood give it an "air bath" occasionally inside and out. Open all doors and dry every part before cleaning, then give it a thorough scrubbing with hot water, soap and borax. Remove shelves and allow box to cool and dry before using. If the shelves are wood care must be exercised, for in these damp, water-soaked shelves lurk bacteria. These invisible foes are difficult to destroy and it is only by constant vigilance you combat them.

Wooden shelves absorb odors, and once they become impregnated with these it is almost impossible to get rid of them. If one must use wooden shelves give them an air and heat bath at least every week. Remove shelves and set on once in boiling water/keep at boiling point 20 minutes, set in hot oven for an hour and then rub all over with a solution of formaldehyde, wipe dry and put in sun for several hours.

Metal shelves with heavy coating of enamel are safe and easily taken care of. Keeping all corners and sides, as well as dishes used, perfectly dry and clean; keeping the temperature of the box at a low degree and the air dry, will lessen the danger from bacteria. Partly decayed food should never be placed in the refrigerator. You do not succeed in "keeping" it, and you fill the food compartment with the bacteria laden air that settles upon the food in the box.

Poached Lentils

Wash and pick over half a pound of lentils. Place them in a small muslin bag and simmer till tender. When soft, turn into a basin and heat to a pulp. While still hot, add a lump of butter, the size of a walnut, a pinch of powdered sage, a heaped up tablespoonful of fine breadcrumbs, pepper and salt to taste. Heat all together and put into a small buttered dish. Bake slowly for half an hour. They may be eaten hot or cold. Serve the lentils in which they were boiled—they will make excellent soup.

Baked Meat

Take one pound of beef and cut it into slices. Lay a couple of slices at the bottom of an earthenware jar, and place on it two onions, peeled and sliced thinly, then two carrots also sliced and two ounces rice, previously well washed, also half a pint of whole peas soaked the night before. Then put in the rest of the meat, tie down the jar and cook in a hot oven for three hours.

Britain Has Million Men in Naval Work

The magnitude of the work going on in the British navy is shown in a letter from the admiralty to Sir Gilbert Parker, answering his inquiry in the house of commons on the number of people engaged in all branches of the navy and of naval work.

The letter states that the navy proper had 146,000 officers and men when the war broke out, which number has now increased to 320,000. There are also 85,000 men engaged in work at royal dockyards and other naval establishments, and several times that number on admiralty work under contract and sub-contract.

An aggregate of more than a million persons engaged in various branches of naval work is thus shown.

Recruiting in the 17th of Medicine Hat is going merrily on, day after day a number of additions to the list. At present the three hundred mark is passed and still they come. It is expected that by the end of the week the number will be increased to 60.

It's too bad these spring freshets come on Sunday. The mayor was working so hard being to get things in shape at the pumping station last Sunday that he was unable to attend church services. However, he was doing good work and we will have to excuse him this time.

Percy Smith, a Redcliff boy who has been at the front for some time, was reported a few weeks ago as having died of wounds. Word was received from Mr. Smith this week, however, stating he is still alive and is now back in the trenches again. Smith was wounded by a bullet in the face and was in the hospital for several months.

In the report of the Dominion Entomologist for 1914, which has just been published, an account is given of the activities of the Entomological branch of the Dominion Department of agriculture, in the matter of controlling insect pests throughout Canada and all who are interested in this subject will be pleased by a perusal of this record of a year's work. Copies of the report may be had free on application to the publication branch department of agriculture, Ottawa.

Those Fountain says that when the water was getting low in the tank last Sunday he feared he was on a fair way to becoming a millionaire. Of course the Review wrote was anxious to get into the news and asked "How?" Tom replied that as he had three "fountains" he expected to be called upon to furnish water for the town.

At the Red Cross meeting last Tuesday Mrs. Porter donated a table cloth to the society to be disposed of as they thought best, the proceeds to go to the society's fund.
